

ACID PEC aqua

Acidifier for drinking water for domestic and production animals

What is it? ACID PEC aqua

A mixture of organic acids designed to acidify the drinking water of domestic and production animals.

Benefits of using ACID PEC aqua

- Enhances the digestion and absorption of vegetable protein used in feed rations.
- Assists in managing stress situations caused by transportation, vaccinations, dietary changes, or extreme weather.
- Improves the solubility and absorption of calcium at the intestinal level.
- Activates the mechanisms of bile acid release, enzymes, and coenzymes that act on food bolus, optimizing its functionality and allowing greater nutrient extraction, which results in improved zootechnical performance.
- Reduces bacterial contamination in drinking water.
- Promotes the proliferation of beneficial gut flora while reducing the effects of pathogenic flora, consequently enhancing the immune system.
- Decreases the use of antibiotics in animal production.
- Provides an excellent alternative for antibiotic-free production programs.
- Boosts therapeutic treatments and supplementations.
- Acidifies drinking water with an alkaline pH.
- Improves production costs.

Ingredients:

Composed of noble organic and inorganic acids, such as:

- Fumaric
- Tartaric
- Orthophosphoric
- Formic
- Citric

These acids, after performing their specific function on pH levels, can be absorbed as an energy source for the Krebs cycle. Orthophosphoric acid, in particular, serves as a high biological value phosphorus source or ATP activator, the primary energy source in living organisms.

Presentation:

Available in plastic containers of 1 kg, 5 kg, 25 kg, and 250 kg.

Dosage:

From 0.5 to 3 mL per liter of water, depending on the required pH and the characteristics of the water to be treated.

Consult a Veterinarian or Advisor.
